Be the Change!

A racial justice seminar for Anabaptist youth
Saturday, Nov. 7, at Goshen College Menn. Church

For high school juniors/seniors & college freshman/sophomores

Racism is one of the issues most people do not want to discuss or address. But over the past few years, it has become an unavoidable issue for many of our young people across the country. How can youth make sense of the world around them, and how can we support them becoming the change we need to see in the world?

MCC Great Lakes, in partnership with the Anti-Oppression Program of MCC U.S., will host an empowering learning experience for Anabaptist youth interested in becoming change-leaders in the work of racial justice.

This seminar will provide youth the opportunity to work together with others across differences and move toward understanding and shared community. Students will learn how to think through these issues together and understand what it means to embody God's love for all people.

Rooted in the Anabaptist peace witness, this seminar will demonstrate that the path to peace is best walked with the compass of justice.
