“…Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind. …Love your neighbor as yourself.” (Matthew 22:37-39)

These two calls are at the core of MCC’s work in the U.S. and across the globe. We are motivated by our love for God and our desire to be a part of the church’s ministry. And we’re inspired by how our supporters and partners are living out Christ’s call to love God and neighbors.

I love the joy and connection that student Diane Nyonshuti (at left in photo) shares with sewing teacher Floride Musabyimana at the Mwana Nshuti (My Child, My Friend) vocational training center in Bugesera District, Rwanda. I see this caring in so much of MCC’s work around the world.

Over the past year, with your support, we made a difference in some 56 countries — meeting urgent needs for food in places like South Sudan, increasing our food security initiatives and expanding water- and soil-conservation efforts.

We responded to the devastation of Hurricane Matthew in Haiti and continued multimillion dollar efforts to respond to the ongoing crises in Syria and Iraq.

Here at home, tours and resources on mass incarceration highlighted injustices in the prison system, while new prisoner care kits helped meet immediate needs for those currently incarcerated or restarting their lives after leaving prison.

Thank you for partnering with us to share God’s love and compassion for all.
